

Arguing with an engineer is like wrestling with a pig. After a while you realise that the pig actually enjoys it!

Real engineers wear Jewellery made from discarded motherboards!

Real engineers not only nurse and program at the same time, but they lull their babies to sleep by the clacking of the keyboard!

Also in the interest of efficiency, real engineers buy convertibles so they can blow-dry their hair on the way to work in the morning!

Real engineers only buy bags big enough to fit their laptops in!

Real engineers figure out algorithms to minimize thread usage when doing counted cross stitch!

Real engineers look on having a new baby as an opportunity to brush up on biomedical and structural engineering in preparation for taking the P E exam!

Real engineers examine the inner workings of the fetal monitor between contractions!

Real engineers make cantilevered birthday cakes, but never provide documentation on how to cut them!

Real engineers never spell in front of the kids, they'd like to, but they can't!

Real engineers carry a set of matched screwdrivers in their bags at all times!

Real engineers fix the runs in their wives pantyhose with duct tape!