

Why am I Black?

There is this just married White couple that decided to make love on their wedding night in the hotel where they held their wedding.

The wife did not want to get pregnant and requested the husband to buy condoms from the shop nearby.

When the husband went out, the wife waited anxiously in the room with all the lights switched off.

The husband had a hard time finding a shop that sold condoms and when he finally found one, he realized that he had only one 20 cents coin.

He asks the shop owner to sell him one condom and the shop owner asked him which quality he wanted.

"The white condom, lowest quality, is 15 cents each. The black condom, average quality, is 20 cents each. And the purple condom, highest quality, is 25 cents each."

So the husband took the black condom as he had only 20 cents with him.

While the husband was out, a black thief came into the room. The wife did not notice and thought that it was her husband. She grabbed the thief and happily started making love.

The wife was so exhausted that she fell asleep immediately.

When the husband reached the hotel, he found his wife sleeping.

Without a warning, he jumped onto his wife, mounted her and started making love vigorously.

The wife was surprised that the husband was so energetic as she thoroughly enjoyed the session.

Nine months later, the wife gave birth to a black baby boy.

When the baby grew up, he asked the father.

"Papa, why am I black and you are white?"

The father shouted "You are damn lucky, 5 cents more and you would have been PURPLE!"